New Village Well is a 'Wow' -- Goedke

500 gallon well assures supply; northside well next

Arlington Heights' new well is a humdinger, in the opinion of Mayor Goedke and the other members of the official family including chairman Adam, Superintendent Luchman and all of the village employees who have been secretly worrying over the possibility of the $20,000 well being a dud.

The pumping test just completed has revealed that the 500 gallon per minute capacity pump used in the test was unable to lower the static level of the water within the well. The capacity of the well apparently has more than doubled over previous tests by blasting the water bearing strata with 50 and 100 pound charges of explosives.

"The well is a success," said Mayor Goedke, "and we will now attempt to penetrate the maze of priorities and purchase a new deep well turbine pump and necessary appurtenances and connections to put same into actual service."

The recent failure of the north side wells placed the community in a precarious position and the auxiliary connection with the Arlington Park Jockey Club Water Works is all that saved the village from a serious water shortage.

However, this latter well is now being reconstructed and deepened and it appears that the solution to water supply problem is now in sight.

The importance of an adequate water supply can never be fully appreciated until a breakdown occurs.

The superior quality of the new supply and the apparent unlimited quantity available are regarded as a boon to Arlington Heights.

The Aetna Casualty Co. will pay the village of Arlington Heights $1,425 as settlement in full for a 12 year old claim, but the village will lose all costs including interest and attorney fees. The claim arose out of the contractor's bond furnished the late John Goehrs who was awarded the contract for the newer section of the village hall.

After the death of the contractor, the village was forced to complete the building and pay supply men for material furnished. The insurance company has side-stepped responsibility until the Monday morning, a few minutes before the trial was to be started. Village witnesses were on hand to testify when announcement was made that the case was closed.

Mayor Goedke states that he is glad that the case is closed, but regrets that such a nationally known casualty company would attempt to avoid payment of a public claim.

Legion post makes plans for a part in defense activities

Merle Guild Post of the American Legion, Arlington Heights, is ready to do its part in the interest of national defense. The first step was taken at meetings Dec. 9 and 23 when the members showed a lot of enthusiasm for the post's 1942 membership drive and a banquet for all ex-service men and women on Tuesday evening, January 27. Full details of this event will appear in the Herald issue of Jan. 16.

A special meeting of the post was held Dec. 29 to make plans for assisting the local civilian defense council, and pledged their aid in every way possible. Fire chief Richard Jahne gave an excellent talk on the importance of adequate local defense in order to guard against possible sabotage, etc.

The officers of the post have let it be known that they will be glad to receive suggestions from members or the general public, for future activities. Arlington Heights Legion post has accomplished a reputation for its accomplishments and in the words of Commander Stadler, "in the present emergency we are going to speed up production."

Village clerk will accept registrations until January 20

If you are not properly registered, you have only three weeks to do so. Forrest F. Davis, village clerk, will be on duty Saturday evenings from 6 to 8 p. m. at the village hall to accept registrations of Arlington Heights residents who are not properly registered. The local books will be closed January 20 and registration will not be accepted again until May, 1942. Telephone 781 for any further information.

Xmas mailing broke all records at post office

Extra help needed to handle many cards and letters

Virginia Dodge, Arlington Heights postmaster never anticipated such an avalanche of mail as engulfed her office and the force of employees last week. Many extra clerks were necessary.

It was only by the adoption of a regular working schedule and procedure that the mail could be handled in an orderly manner. Some people do not heed often repeated admonitions to mail early and the extra help was needed two days after Christmas to handle the many sacks of delayed mail that were received from Chicago. The use of 1 1/2 cent stamps in place of first class postage on late mailed cards and letters caused many of them not to reach their addressees until after Christmas.

Mrs. Dodge had provided a large mail box in the lobby of the office in which the public was asked to drop 1 1/2 cent mail. Such mail that was placed in the regular slots was immediately sorted from first class mail, the latter receiving preference all the way along the line. It is impossible to forward mail with only 1 1/2 cent stamps, and a considerable quantity of undelivered cards and greetings remain in the postoffice through the country.

The heaviest local mailing was Dec. 22 when 25,000 pieces went through the canceling machine, which was 8,300 greater than the heaviest day last year. Saturday, Dec. 20, also a heavy day for the postoffice showed cancellations of 24,200.

Authority for extra dispatch of mail was secured by Mrs. Dodge and all pieces of mail dropped each day left the local office that evening. In order to hasten mail dropped on Sunday, Mrs. Dodge secured two extra dispatches that day.

The daily average for insured packages was in the neighborhood of a hundred while C. O. D. packages averaged 30 a day.

All parcel post mail arriving in Arlington Heights was first handled at a temporary postal station in the vacant store of the Harry Knaack garage, where it was sorted for the several routes. Only packages for office boxes and the rural routes passed through the postoffice.

All city mail deliveries were handled by substitute carriers. The regular carriers remained in the office to sort the mail ready for deliveries. On Saturday three deliveries were made in place of the customary two. An assistant carrier was also provided Mr. Rodewald the rural carrier.

The following table shows how well Arlington Heights people answered the request for early mailing.

Dec. 17	10,000
Dec. 18	10,500
Dec. 19	11,000
Dec. 20	24,200
Dec. 21	28,300
Dec. 22	25,000
Dec. 23	13,900
Dec. 24	3,500

In behalf of the people of Arlington Heights, the Herald says "thank you" to Mrs. Dodge and her loyal force of employees.

War Benefit movie is colorful social affair

New theater filled; proceeds to Red Cross

The most colorful social event to occur in the village of Arlington Heights in a number of years was the War Benefit movie presented in the new Arlington Heights theatre on Monday evening, when the members of the British War Relief Society of Arlington Heights sponsored the outstanding movie "One Foot in Heaven." The show was a suburban premiere presented to a capacity audience of 775 people, with the net proceeds going to the American Red Cross.

While the benefit was not a formal affair, many guests arrived in formal attire direct from dinner parties which were given in many homes preceding the affair, and in preparation for late supper parties which followed.

Prominent among these was the large supper party given by Mr. and Mrs. George Hartford of Stonegate, when they had fifty guests from Evanston, River Forest, Oak Park, and Chicago for a buffet supper following the theatre party.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Coleman of Mayfair road entertained out-of-town guests at dinner preceding the benefit, and had eighteen in a buffet supper following the party.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Attwood of 140 Park Lane had as their guests at the benefit, Miss Constance Attwood, Mr. and Mrs. C. Iverson, Mr. Tom Anderson, and Miss Kathryn Anderson of Lakewood, New York, who have been holiday guests in the Attwood home. Miss Anderson is the fiancée of John C. Attwood, now Second Lieutenant in the 4th Air Supply Squadron of the U. S. Air Force.

Others who entertained were Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Wood of Harvard ave., who gave a buffet supper following the benefit, and Mr. and Mrs. George J. Edgcombe of Prospect Heights, who also entertained at a buffet supper.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Forrester had as a dinner and theatre guest, Mr. Walter Parke, prominent Chicago artist, who loaned several paintings for the lobby of the theatre and who generously donated an original etching as a door prize.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Palmer entertained Dr. and Mrs. R. V. Williams of Rushford, Minn. and Dr. and Mrs. John L. Urish of Chicago at dinner preceding the theatre party. Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Taylor entertained seven guests at a 6:30 dinner preceding the benefit, and another small dinner party was given by Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Miles of Derbyshire Lane.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Baskin of Mt. Prospect and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brady of the village, entertained at cocktail parties preceding the benefit, and some twenty-five couples from Scarsdale arranged for a cocktail and dinner party at Eddie's Castle Bar preceding the performance.

The benefit was a complete success both from a social and financial standpoint. The British War Relief Society, a group of 33 women who have been organized since the beginning of the war, have made an enviable reputation for themselves, with anything they undertake done in 100 per cent fashion—this benefit no exception. Under the leadership of Mrs. Geo. Hartford they worked faithfully and well, and several days before

Mt. Prospect man dies from injuries

Wm. Barnum, Mt. Prospect employee of the Benjamin Electric company in Des Plaines, died Friday afternoon in the Palatine hospital from injuries received Wednesday when his car struck a tree near his home.

Mr. Barnum, driving home from work about five in the afternoon, attempted to turn into his driveway, losing control of his car as it skidded on the ice. The vehicle turned over and struck a nearby tree.

Mr. Barnum was rushed to the Northwestern hospital in Des Plaines and then moved to the Palatine hospital where he succumbed to his injuries about 1:30 Friday afternoon.

Chief injuries consisted of a fractured neck and numerous lacerations about the face.

Toys and gifts abound for needy on Xmas Day

Thanks to the many "Good Fellows" in the village who so splendidly cooperated with the Christmas basket fund committee, all in the village had plenty of good things to eat on Christmas day, and every child known to the committee, who might not have a visit from Santa received plenty of toys and candy.

The toys were furnished by the Arlington Heights Parent-Teacher Association, who, under the direction of Mrs. Walter Schimmel, collected and repaired and painted toys donated by many children and adults in the village. The task was a large one, and took many hours of hard work on the part of a few individuals, but smiles on the faces of the children who received them, would have amply repaid all who gave so liberally of their time, had they been along to deliver them.

The basket fund committee composed of one member of all interested organizations from the village met on each Monday evening in December to plan ways and means of providing Christmas cheer for all in the village. The committee wish to thank all who cooperated so splendidly to accomplish this task. Fifty-two families were furnished with baskets containing everything to make a good Christmas dinner with plenty of surplus supplies included among them candy, apples and oranges.

Will bombing win the war?

Most readers, whether employers or wage workers, should primarily be interested in whether World War II will continue in its present fury through 1942. If it will continue, this is good news for those engaged in the defense industries, and bad news for those who are in certain non-defense industries. If the war is to end during 1942, then the reverse is true. In fact, we would then see some hectic times which would be detrimental to many readers, even though helpful to others. Therefore, let's bravely face the facts and answer the question, "Will World War II continue through 1942?"

It would be impossible to lick Hitler by an army of invasion before December 31, 1942. Most aviators are not very hopeful about the effects of bombing. They believe that cities gradually become immune to bombing as individuals become immune to almost everything which comes along slowly and lasts long enough. Of course, if the British and Americans should invade Europe, bombing planes would tremendously help the invading army by destroying the enemy's communication lines, crops, and oil. But for merely scaring the people of a country, bombing has not been successful. Statistics indicate that the money lost in the cost of bombers destroyed amounts to more than the property loss caused by the bombers. The Multiplication Table, as well as the Ten Commandments, is bound to be a factor in bringing this war to an end, but when? The blockade—however—is becoming an important factor, but blocking takes time whether against Germany or Japan.

Uprisings may come

All of this means that the only hope of bringing World War II to an end during 1942 is an uprising of the Germans, Japanese, and Italians, or of the people of the conquered nations, or of the people of Great Britain, or of the United States. To have the people of any of these countries quit and go on a "sit-down strike" would bring the war to an end. I can visualize this taking place sometime after 1942; but I cannot visualize it as coming about in 1942. In this connection let me remind readers of what I said last January regarding the destruction of crops and fuel supplies during 1942. Therefore, I say that there will be no peace in 1942; that many non-defense industries will be depressed throughout 1942; and that business as a whole has already seen its peak. The war may even last two or more years after 1942; but after 1942, two months before it ends no one will foresee the end.

Real estate will hold firm

Prices of farm lands should strengthen during 1942. Farmers will be more prosperous. The only investment which farmers know is land. Many will be so foolish as to again get land poor as they did following World War I. There also will be some purchasing of small farms as inflation hedges. It looks, however, as if—other than in defense areas—the "small home" industry has about reached its peak and will begin to slump off in 1942.

Ordinarily this should result in increased rents and an increased

Opera singer on Choral program

JOHN MACDONALD, bass-baritone of Chicago City Opera Company, who will appear as guest soloist on the program of the Northwest Suburban Choral society this Sunday evening at the First Presbyterian church of Arlington Heights.

Choral society to present 'Messiah' Sunday

John MacDonald, one of the country's finest choral singers, will appear as bass soloist with the Northwest Suburban Choral Society when they present Handel's Messiah January 4, at eight p. m. at the First Presbyterian church of Arlington Heights.

MacDonald's acclaim as an artist of oratorio will provide a high light on the program. He has appeared in and about Chicago many times and has scores of friends who will be anxious to hear him again.

Harold Townsend has been selected as tenor soloist. Townsend is also an artist of oratorio.

The soprano solos will be sung by Barbara McWharther, former resident of Arlington Heights, and at present a student at Grinnell College in Iowa, where she has participated in many musical events.

The oratorio is being directed by Theodore Militzer. Miss Mercie Heise, of Palatine, is organist.

The choral society has been at work since early fall under the capable directorship of Theodore Militzer. The chorus which numbers approximately fifty is made up of people from Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Palatine, and Barrington.

One killed, eight injured at Mannheim, Oakton

One boy, 11 years old, was killed and eight others were seriously injured at the crossing of Mannheim and Oakton sts., Christmas Eve, as the cars of Andrew Papadopolous, Evanston, and Robert G. Knopp, Walworth, Wis., met in terrific impact and were hurled nearly 100 feet into the field at the intersection.

Theodore Papadopolous, son of Andrew, died shortly after the accident. His three sisters, Elaine, 13, Marjorie, 12, and Betty, 15, received fractured pelvis bones and possible internal injuries. Diana, 28, received cuts and bruises. Knopp and his wife and one child were seriously bruised.

Papadopolous was driving west on Oakton when he was struck by Knopp, who was driving north on Mannheim. Des Plaines police are endeavoring to prove that the accident occurred outside the corporate limits of the village.

Paddock Publications does its part

A $25 defense bond every week for the duration of the war is the quota that the employees of Paddock Publications have voluntarily offered as their financial participation in the present national emergency.

This amount represents nearly five per cent of their salary checks. All employees of the publication plant are married except three. Two of these volunteered enlistment in Chicago Saturday afternoon. They were advised to return to their jobs and await the coming of official registration. Neither of the boys were included in the last registration.

We are not throwing any bouquets our way because of the patriotic attitude of these men, but it warms the hearts of the publishers and we hope will be an aid to our country's victory.

Pauling in training for army air corps at Texas field

Aviation Cadet William Clarence Pauling, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Pauling, So. State rd., Arlington Heights, has arrived at Goodfellow Field, San Angelo, Texas.

During his ten weeks' training at this basic flying school he will prepare to take his place in Uncle Sam's recently re-expanded Army Air Corps by learning to handle sleek 450 horsepower PT-13A trainers. Ahead of him lie ground school training, aerobatics, cross country practice, and formation, instrument, and night flying.

From Goodfellow Field he will go on to advanced training in larger, more powerful ships for a final ten weeks before receiving his wings and bars as a flying second lieutenant in the United States Army Air Corps Reserve.

Man injured; both cars wrecked in Arlington collision

Winston Bissette, employed at Eleanor's bake shop, Arlington Heights, was injured Monday evening in an auto collision at the intersection of Dunton and South streets. He was taken to the Northwestern hospital for treatment of head injuries and fractured ribs.

Joseph Mayerck, 19 years, 112 W. Vine st., Arlington Heights, was driving south on Dunton when he collided with Bissette's auto, traveling east on South street. Both cars were badly damaged. Mayerck was uninjured. Bissette lives at 2154 N. Avers, Chicago.

Community gets finest theatre in northwest towns

Arlington Heights, which has been without a movie theatre for exactly one year, is being given a great big New Year's present by the Lucas Theatre Corporation in the form of a modern theatre that is second to none other in the northwest suburbs. The theatre is being introduced to readers of Paddock Publications this week by a special four-page section of this issue, showing exterior and interior views of the movie house that is certain to receive many "ohs" and "ahs" from those who visit it the first time. The theatre was filled to capacity Monday evening when a Red Cross pre-opening benefit was given under the auspices of a local group of society women.

The cost of such a theatre runs into many thousands, but Donald Knapp, manager of the theatre says that it has all been worthwhile if the people of Arlington Heights and surrounding communities are pleased with the result. "We wanted to make the New Arlington the movie home of the 10,000 people residing in its immediate territory. If it is so recognized by them, our faith in the project will have been justified."

Following a confidential questionnaire that was mailed to many Arlington Heights citizens, double features will be shown for the present. The opening pictures are "Married Bachelor" and "Down in San Diego" which will continue three days. On Sunday, "Nothing but the Truth" and "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" will start and continue through Monday and Tuesday.

Admission prices, including tax, will be 22c until 6:30, 28c thereafter. The boxoffice will be open at 6:30 evenings with the first show starting at 6:30. The matinee hours for Sundays and holidays are 1:00 and 1:30. A Saturday matinee will start at 2:00 o'clock.

You do not have to have a cold
by C. W. LUSSMAN of Sieburg Pharmacy

There are too many people resigned to having "bad colds." They suffer at frequent intervals the most intense discomfort, loss of efficiency and vitality, and all too often serve to spread germs to others.

Vaccines are becoming increasingly useful and protective. Your doctor can advise you as to the efficiency of immunization in your particular case. See him before you are exposed through lowered vitality to infection which always threatens and is now particularly active.

One cold can cost you many times the price of protection. Do not delay. The prescription ordered by your doctor should be filled by an equally scientific druggist.

They were thinking about Santa

The coming of Santa Claus was the principal thought of these three youngsters when the Rutledge studio man snapped these pictures. We have grouped them together as examples of Young America for which the adults of today are making sacrifices in order that they may enjoy the same privileges as their parents.

The youngster at the left is Kent Kuriz, 18 months old. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Kuriz, 305 S. Mitchell. Since Christmas he has been very busy with three choo-choo trains. Santa brought him three of them. Of course his dog, Zipper, is at his heels most of the time.

Nancy VanLuik is the young lady at the right. She is six years old just learning to read and print and has just had the happiest Christmas any little girl can have. Her best gift was a doll that she has named, "Jean." Nancy's parents are Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Van Luik, 717 S. Mitchell.

The two year old in the center is David Curtis, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. S. Curtis, Jr., 532 S. Highland. He has only been living in Arlington Heights a short time and came here because Dad was looking for plenty of out-doors. David enjoys the fresh air these snappy days, but at present spends a lot of his time with the train and picture books that Santa left at his home.

Mr. and Mrs. Erber to observe 50th anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Erber of 106 South Dunton st., are celebrating their fiftieth wedding anniversary on Saturday, January 3, when they are inviting their many friends to an open house from 1 p. m. to 4:30 p. m. in their home on South Dunton st.

Following the open house the Erbers will be guests of honor at a dinner party at the St. Peter's Lutheran school hall and at a reception and party in the Mt. Prospect Hall in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Erber are parents of 11 children, ten of whom are living. They have 27 grandchildren and one great-grandchild. Mrs. Erber is proud that she has had the privilege of raising these eleven children and one grandchild, all of whom she has seen confirmed in the local St. Peter's church. The Erbers spent the first 29 years of their marriage on a farm in Wheeling township and have lived for the past 21 years at their present address on South Dunton, where Mrs. Erber does all of her own work, and never thinks Saturday is complete without freshly baked bread on the kitchen table.

All of the family will be present on for the happy celebration.

The Bluebirds, the younger groups of Campfire girls in the village worked hard to do their part in Christmas plans in the village.

Each little girl made a small stuffed animal of black oil cloth for distribution among needy children and wrapped them in cellophane and red ribbon. The girls also made attractive Christmas presents for their mothers. One group making handkerchief aprons, one group making attractive waste baskets and the others Santa Claus apples.

While the girls did not have Christmas parties they called all of their December meetings festivities meetings in honor of the Christmas season, when they were so busily working to make others happy. Each girl earned Bluebird hair clips in recognition of her work.

Theta Gamma prize money given to needy families

The five dollar prize offered by Theta Gamma Chapter of Lambda Sigma Alpha Sorority was given away at their last meeting, December 19, at the home of Mrs. Donald Meyer of Arlington Heights. The winner was Mr. Canton of 7451 Kingston st., Chicago. Theta Gamma would like to thank all those who cooperated. The money was used to make some needy family's Christmas a little brighter.

Mrs. Meyer's apartment was also the scene of a gay Christmas party at which her sister, Miss Alice Drechsel, was co-hostess. Mrs. Robert Schaefer, home for Christmas from Hapeville, Georgia, also attended the meeting.

Woman's club to hold an afternoon of drama Jan. 7

The Arlington Heights Woman's club has a most interesting afternoon's program arranged for their first post-Christmas meeting, which will be held on Wednesday afternoon, January 7.

The meeting will open at 1:30 p. m. when the literature chairman, Mrs. D. A. Grant, will present Mrs. Clarence W. Happ, well known book reviewer of the North shore. Mrs. Happ who gives book reviews constantly before discriminating audiences in Winnetka, Highland Park and Evanston, will review for local club members, that popular book "Windswept" by Mary Ellen Chase. Mrs. Grant feels exceedingly fortunate in having secured the services of Mrs. Happ and urges all club members to attend this promising review.

Following the book review the club members will have another outstanding treat when Helen Jaccard of Chicago and New York, known as the "Commuting Dramatic Reporter" will present the club program on "Views and Reviews in the Theatre." Helen Jaccard is received with great enthusiasm wherever she appears, for few see as many plays in a year as she. She misses few openings in New York, and when she presents her program before audiences she re-enacts clever scenes from prominent plays.

Jan. 7th's program seems to be one that few members will wish to miss.

The book review will be presented at 1:30 p. m., followed by the regular club program. Remember the time and the date.

33RD DIVISION MOTHERS' NOTES

Mrs. Edw. B. Dearie entertained two sailors for Christmas. They were only at Great Lakes five days. There were dozens of sailors who were invited to all the generous people of Chicago.

Poole hits false reports about tires at Springfield

Reports circulating this week to the effect that authorities had taken over the entire new tire stock of George C. Poole, Inc. are flatly denied by Mr. Poole. His firm is complying with government regulations, Mr. Poole states, and will continue to comply. No new tires can be sold, he says, without the authority of the government.

We pledge ourselves to this cause

A Statement by

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company

We make this pledge publicly to our national government and to the people of the United States:

That we will cooperate unhesitatingly in every effort of authorized government agencies to prevent unwarranted rises in prices of foods.

That we will continue our efforts to reduce the spread between prices paid to the grower and prices charged to the consumers.

That to this end we will continue to do everything in our power to assist the farmers and growers of America in the orderly marketing of their products at the fairest possible prices to them.

That we will make every effort to hold our inventories at the lowest point consistent with good service to our customers because hoarding, whether by wholesalers, retailers, or consumers, will cause higher prices.

That we will endeavor to continue to pay our employees the highest wages and to give them the best working conditions in the grocery business generally.

That we will make every effort to continue to sell food at retail at the lowest gross margin of profit in the history of the retail grocery business.

Today we are providing food for our customers at the lowest gross profit rate in the history of the retail grocery business. This means that we have achieved efficiencies in the distribution of food never before attained. More of your food dollar goes for food and less for overhead expenses than ever before. No other great retail business in the United States in any field is operated with such a low cost of distribution.

No one in the food business can control the wholesale price of food. Only the government of the United States has power to do this, and for the protection of our people this power in the government is now a necessary power.

Today, with the nation at war, we believe that no private interest has any rights in conflict with the general public interest.

The armed forces of the United States are today receiving more and better food than ever before in our national history. It is equally important that all of our people working and living behind the lines, men, women and children, shall be better fed and better nourished than ever before in our national history.

termined, during 1942, to take still further steps to merit your continued friendship and loyalty to us. May the sands of the hourglass bring you many golden hours of happiness in the year to come.

To Our Depositors, Patrons, Friends

A year of fast-moving, history-making events has just been closed. A new year, which may prove even more momentous, is beginning. It will bring to each one of us more important obligations than the mere selfish pursuit of individual interests. It will reveal to us more clearly our inter-dependence, and the value of cooperation, of loyalty, of a spirit of national unity.

Passing years and changing conditions are no novelty to this bank. Our progress in the past has been due in a very large measure to the friendship and confidence of those we have served. We should like to express to you our sincere thanks for your patronage in the past year, and we pledge our utmost cooperation to make the new year a happy and productive one for you.

LIFE WITH MOTHER

Dear Eleanor:

We loved your Christmas letter! And, the drawing of your lovely hearth, I can see all of you very clearly sitting in front of the cheerful fire, unwrapping the surprises Santa has left. It is a scene that warms the heart. I think Christmas has a deeper meaning for all of us here in the good old U. S. A., than it has had for many a year.

"Peace on earth; Good will to men" may sound somewhat ironic, with practically the entire world in arms against his brother. Because of this, we who have escaped the real horror of war, should make a special effort to show those around us that kindness, thoughtfulness, generosity and love can and will survive this supreme test. For this reason, we should make this an especially Merry Christmas for the little ones. If we adults are unable to understand the meaning of this chaos, we can easily imagine the confusion in the minds of young children.

When the first news of the treachery at Pearl Harbor came over the radio, we sat in silent huddle around the loud speaker. It was when little George began to ask if we were going to be bombed that I realized that we could not disrupt our regular routine by continuing to sit at the radio. Our life must go on, in so far as possible, in the usual way. We do not talk of the war before the children and we listen to the communiques only after the two youngest boys are asleep in their beds.

My great hope in this present conflict is that we Americans can keep our balance. Chopping down the cherry trees along the Potomac and painting buildings yellow won't help us win the war. Looking suspiciously at our neighbor, whose grandfather was born in Germany, will do no good and may do a lot of harm. After all, there are very few people who can say that their ancestors arrived on the Mayflower. And, according to some historians, there is some doubt about the sterling characters of some of those individuals. Some one asked Will Rogers if his ancestors came over on the Mayflower and his quick answer was, "No, they met the boat." He was three-fourth Indian.

If you'll forgive me for being a sentimentalist, I'll describe our preparations and decorations for the holidays. The older I get, the fonder I become of little white houses with clean window panes and ruffled curtains at the windows. My first step in getting ready for Christmas was to wash the ordinary curtains in the living room. While they were down, I cleaned the windows and the wood work. When the curtains were rehung and the lights reflected on the panes, I was ready to say, it was indeed worth the effort and work. Now, that these windows each have a real holly wreath tied with a red satin bow hanging for all to see, I'm sure there never was a more heart warming sight.

After much discussion pro and con, we finally put the tree on the porch. We did this for several reasons; 'though the boys wanted it in the living room, just as we always have had it. After the last string of lights were on and the trimmings placed "just so," the boys said they were satisfied. Since our porch is so well enclosed and because both the living room door and the kitchen door open out on the porch, we are bound to have our fill of its visionary beauty. At first, we planned to use only red, white and blue lights, but we had to be practical and use the lights left over from last year, which are in all colors. We have used only red, white and blue ball ornaments and no tinsel or silver icicles. We didn't get around to popping corn as we usually do, but we have the candy canes. Around the base of the tree we have sprays of green spruce. In fact, we have used the green boughs every place we could think of on the porch and the result is a fragrant aroma of pine and the feeling of the stillness of pine forests.

Instead of a wreath on our front door, I made a spray of the green boughs tied with three pine cones. A red satin bow tops where the branches meet and I placed it just above our brass knocker.

On the broad spread of the piano, I laid a cloth (to protect the finish) and placed a round copper pot and arranged spruce boughs in water. Then, I grouped more boughs around the base and spread them in a half circle. Jack brought me some clean straw from the barn and we arranged a place for the creche. The "announcing angel" stands high on an inverted and hidden ash tray. The infant lies in the manger on the straw with His devoted parents nearby. Three little lambs are close (to keep Him warm) and to the side are the shepherds... one carrying an injured lamb over his shoulder. The three Wise Men are coming up followed by a camel and various animals are grouped about in the straw. As an edging for the scene, I have pine cones. These we saved from last year. And, I'm glad we did as we were unable to get any this year. For the lighting effect, I have placed one of our miniature oil lamps in the green boughs just to the side of the family group. George and Edward say that they like this "decoration" best of all.

The little fir tree that stands outdoors at the south of the house is lighted with the usual out of door lights, we have had for so many years. Rob ran the wire through a window in the basement. Our old New York street lamp and post, is festooned with boughs of spruce and a large red oil cloth bow. It is the first thing that greets any callers and is meant to extend the welcome of everyone in our family. Instead of the usual candle burning in the window on Christmas Eve to welcome the Christ Child, we are going to use a small oil lamp. Less fire hazard and the oil burns so much longer.

Your kind invitation to Shady Rest during the holidays is very much appreciated. We will certainly appear at your house some day during the boys' vacation. They are looking forward to sleeping late in the mornings and I've already promised them, they needn't adhere too strictly to schedules during this period. I want them to relax and have all the fun they can possibly have. They have had an exceptionally busy Fall.

Jack has made the school band. He is so terribly happy over this event, he talks about it all the time. George has asked for a bugle for Christmas, so there is no doubt but what the "welkin" will ring for us here at Hill Top. Daddy will get out his violin (which he never attempts to play except at Christmas), I will seat myself at the piano, Bob will strap on his accordion, Jack will lift up his trombone, George will do likewise with the bugle and Edward will beat the drum, to a sincere, if not perfectly rendered audition of Adeste Fideles.

And so, my dearest friend, close with the best of love to you and yours and the wish that you will be able to spend a few hours with us during the festive days. MERRY CHRISTMAS AND A HAPPY NEW YEAR!

Mary.

This Week in Wheeling

LUCIE SCHNEIDER, Editor

The Christmas meeting of the Parent-Teacher association was well attended, with a larger percentage of fathers present than usual. In the absence of the president, the vice president, Mrs. Ray Leach, presided at the meeting held in the gym. One of the major items of business was the re-organizing of the association. The Wheeling Boy Scout Troop, including subscriptions to Boy's Life for each scout. Following the business a brief musical program was furnished by young people. The Orchestral entertained on their accordions, as did Earl Dueball. A group of Christmas carols were sung by Girl Scout carolers. The remainder of the evening was spent in playing buncle. A delicious barbecue luncheon and a gift exchange closed the program.

The suburban campaign for the American Red Cross War Fund has been scheduled to open Jan. 12. The most urgent need of the Red Cross at the present is a generous financial support. The American Red Cross is under government supervision and command, but receives no financial support from the government. The vast program of mercy is made possible by a great army of volunteers, including voluntary givers of money. Will you help speed the work of the "Angels of Mercy"? Don't wait to be asked, but hand your gifts now, to Mrs. Merle Willis, chairman of the women's division, or Miss Lucie Schneider, Roll Call chairman.

A & P throws weight against unwarranted food price increase

John A. Hartford, president of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, this week, threw the full weight of the nation's greatest retail food distributing organization behind efforts of government agencies to prevent unwarranted rises in food prices.

In a six-point pledge "to our national government and to the people of the United States" published as an advertisement in more than 3,000 newspapers throughout the United States, Mr. Hartford outlined a definite working program for company cooperation in the national war effort.

"No one in the food industry can control the wholesale price of food," Mr. Hartford said. "Only the government of the United States has power to do this, and for the protection of our people this power in the government is now a necessary power."

"Today, with the nation at war, we believe that no private interest has any rights in conflict with the general public interest."

The six-point pledge by which the company will be guided in fulfilling its public responsibility declared that:

"We will cooperate unhesitatingly in every effort of authorized government agencies to prevent unwarranted rises in prices of foods."

"We will continue our efforts to reduce the spread between prices paid the grower and prices charged the consumer."

"To this end we will continue to do everything in our power to assist the farmers and growers of America in the orderly marketing of their products at the fairest possible prices to them."

"We will make every effort to hold our inventories at the lowest point consistent with good service to our customers because hoarding, whether by wholesalers, retailers, or consumers, will cause higher prices."

"We will endeavor to continue to pay our employees the highest wages and to give them the best working conditions in the grocery business generally."

"We will make every effort to continue to sell food at retail at the lowest gross margin of profit in the history of the retail grocery business."

Pointing out that the armed forces of the country are getting more and better food than ever before, Mr. Hartford said, "It is equally important that all of our people working and living behind the lines shall be better fed and better nourished than ever before in our national history."

Bernard Nerge and Des Plaines girl are married

Miss Joan Langlois, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Langlois of Des Plaines became the bride of Bernard Nerge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Nerge of Mt. Prospect, in a quiet ceremony performed by the Rev. Father Duffin in St. Mary's rectory, on Thursday evening, December 18.

For her wedding attire, the charming young bride selected a street length dress of white wool jersey styled with shirt waist, round neckline, three quarter length sleeves and dimpled skirt. She wore a white feathered hat with brown face veil and brown accessories. Her corsage was of orchids.

Miss Eleanor Langlois, sister of the bride, was the only attendant. She was attractive in a street length dress of slate blue crepe styled with a full skirt, fashioned with a peplum front, high neckline and short sleeves. Her accessories were in brown and she also wore a corsage of orchids.

The bridegroom was attended by Ed Busse of Mt. Prospect.

Only the immediate members of the family attended the wedding ceremony. The bride's mother chose for her daughter's wedding a street length dress of black crepe with black accessories.

Open house was held on Saturday evening at the Nerge home in Mt. Prospect where friends and relatives dropped in to extend congratulations to the newlyweds.

Upon their return from a short honeymoon trip, Mr. Nerge returned Friday to Fort Barkeley, Texas, where he is a private in the U. S. Army. The bride will reside with her parents until husband's release from the army.

Splinter Extraction
When a splinter has gone very deep into the flesh try extraction by steam. Heat a wide-mouthed bottle and fill it two-thirds full with very hot water and place under the injured spot. The suction draws the flesh down when a little pressure is used and the steam in a few minutes remove both splinter and inflammation. This method is particularly good when the splinter has been in for some time.

Mrs. Marbet of Glencoe and Mr. Straub of Northbrook were visitors at the D. Wright home on Friday.

Eighteen young people spent several hours singing Christmas carols about the village following the Christmas Eve service. With the use of several cars the group covered a larger territory than had been possible in former occasions.

Success of food program depends on farm planning

As the success of the defense program depends upon the efficiency of manufacturing plants, so does the success of the food production program depend upon the farmer's ability to maintain the efficiency of his production plant.

It is important to increase food production to meet immediate needs, but the food-for-defense program must also include a plan for efficient food production for the next three or four years, writes H. C. M. Case, head of the agricultural economics department of the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, in the current issue of Illinois Farm Economics.

"It will require some time for the world to lapse into a normal production program again, and, in the meantime, many hungry people will need to be fed."

"The farmer is not asked to go to the extreme of all-out for food production by putting all of his land into highly soil-depleting crops. If his land is subject to serious erosion, he should now plow up those fields which ought to be left in hay or pasture. Efficient production is desired, and efficient crop production is based upon proper soil tillage, proper soil treatment and careful choice of the varieties of crops which will give large yields."

"The most economical way of increasing the production of livestock and livestock products is for the farmer who is already experienced in production to increase his output through better practices and by enlarging enterprises in which he is already engaged. A 20 per cent increase in the number of hogs for the farmer who is already producing 40 litters of pigs a year will not seriously interfere with his production plans. On the other hand, a farmer may have disastrous results in producing 10 litters of pigs in a year unless he has had experience in raising pigs or is willing to give careful attention to all details that go along with successful pork production," Case said.

Home Bureau holds health lesson at Mrs. Kirchhoffs

The Wheeling unit of the Cook County Home Bureau met in the home of Mrs. Louis Kirchhoff located on Central rd.

Mrs. V. Reed and Mrs. E. Fritz gave a most valuable lesson on the common cold explaining how to conserve health and money by preventing a cold. Mrs. Fritz went on to say that colds are contagious and are therefore caused by germs and spread by discharges from mouth, nose and throat.

Fatigue, constipation, too much or too little clothing, overheated rooms, worry, lack of sleep, all tend to make an individual an easy prey to colds," she added.

Mrs. Reed advised plenty of fresh air, sunshine, rest, fruit juices, milk, sensible clothing, to prevent the common cold. "To treat a cold," she stated "take plenty of liquids and rest in bed."

Mrs. Reed stressed the fact that mental attitude affects a person's health more than one realizes. She advised everyone to make adjustments and not to worry as shock and grief lowers the resistance of the body.

Members of the Wheeling unit are very grateful to Mrs. H. M. Barnes who came from the Barrington township unit to give the beautiful lesson on decorating butter cakes at a meeting. She contributed a grand recipe for making ornamental icing and making lilies, roses, violets, sweetpeas and leaves and borders and many other things for decorating cakes of this icing. She also explained all about the equipment. All the ladies had an opportunity to try them.

More beautiful cakes for birthdays and holidays will be the result of this meeting if the interest shown is any indication.

After the meeting was adjourned the group sang Christmas carols with Mrs. Fred Haas at the piano. Mrs. Kirchhoff served coffee with the cookies the members brought as samples of the recipes used in working to roll call. The members had a lot of fun exchanging recipes.

The next meeting will be held Jan. 22 in the home of Mrs. H. Bingham located on Dundee rd. on the Buffalo Creek Farm with Mrs. Mary Wright, Home Adviser and Mrs. Ed. Grewe in charge of the program.

Daily hot lunch on calendar for school children

School children are getting daily hot lunches under the community school lunch program in Illinois during the month of September, totaling 5,423, an increase of 8,000 over September, 1940, according to an announcement made today by state welfare authorities. According to present indications, more than 200,000 Illinois school children will enjoy the benefits of the daily hot lunches at school during the coming year based on the increase in participating schools in September, welfare authorities state.

This record, it is pointed out by Miss Grace Armstrong, extension specialist in nutrition for the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, will substantially increase the effectiveness of the nutrition program, giving a decided boost to the school lunch work which the extension service has carried on for 27 years.

In addition to the concerted action of the SMA school lunch program, the hot noon meals for many other school children of the state. Thus it is expected that thousands of children will go through the school year with better records in both health and education.

Participation in the community school lunch program in September, 1941, in the 12 middle western states comprising the second region of the Surplus Marketing Administration, was 476,719, more than double the number of school children participating in this area in September, 1940, when hot lunches were served to 229,308, officials reported.

Under the community school lunch program, nutritious American farm food products are purchased by the Surplus Marketing Administration and are made available to schools for use in providing an adequate diet for all children attending school.

The lunch program, welfare authorities point out, is dependent on local cooperation. Each individual school lunch program must be organized and sponsored within the community. Any civic organization, school board, P. T. A., or any mothers' group may sponsor the program and with the sponsorship set-up, the Surplus Marketing Administration through the cooperation of the State Director of Community Distribution, and local welfare authorities, make those foods available which the Government has obtained through purchasing farm products in the open market. Valuable aid is given the program by home economics extension through its home advisers.

At the present time, the list of commodities available includes the following: concentrated soups, apples, honey, cereals, dried and condensed milk, butter, eggs, pork and beans, pork products, oranges, rice, raisins, wheat flour, peanut butter and other products.

According to SMA officials, some of these commodities will be available for a limited period only, but the list at all times will be maintained to include enough products to provide a well-balanced hot lunch for schools.

Lockers provide better low-cost diets in state

Better diets at lower cost are within reach of more than a third of Illinois' farm families in spite of pocketbooks pinched by rising food prices.

Based on 250 cold storage locker plants now in operation with an average capacity of more than 300 lockers each, H. G. Russell, livestock extension specialist of the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, says that careful planning and wise use of the lockers will permit many families to live largely on food produced at home.

Locker plants are destined to play an important part in the regulation of food costs during the emergency period of rising food prices, Russell believes. Home-killed meats and home-prepared fruits and vegetables, frozen and stored in a locker and supplemented with a generous supply of home-canned products, will permit nearly as much food variety as it is possible to obtain at retail markets, except possibly for some of the fresh fruits and vegetables.

Most farm families using lockers report they are now eating more meat, particularly beef, and a wider variety of meats than was possible before the advent of the locker plant.

All food stored in lockers is protected as to freshness and purity by recent legislation which provides for regular inspection under state supervision and under the guidance of two locker plant associations in Illinois.

Although most of the early locker plants were built in areas where the livestock population was heaviest, plants have more recently been installed in the southern half of the state, making the service available in scattered areas in that section.

Why Oxford?
It is generally supposed that low shoes, laced or tied over the instep, acquired the name "oxford" from the fact that such footwear was first made and worn at Oxford, England, in the early part of the Seventeenth century.

5 ways to make farm machinery operate longer

All sorts of farm machines are taking on new life these days as Illinois farmers put their equipment in order for their big food-for-freedom production responsibility in 1942.

Probable shortages of farm machinery next year as a result of the defense program make it all the more important that farmers extend the life of their machinery and tools by ordering repair parts now, says E. W. Lehmann, head of agricultural engineering, University of Illinois College of Agriculture.

To help farmers put their machinery in order, extension agricultural engineers of the college are planning to hold schools in many counties on tractor maintenance and machinery repair, said Lehmann, who offers these suggestions for getting longer service out of farm machinery:

1. Store machinery under cover. 2. When storing the mowing machine, remove the sickle, grease it, and order new sections if any are broken or missing. Straighten bent, tighten loose, and replace broken guards, block up mower, and support the long tongue on a block to keep it straight. Order repair parts now.

3. After harvest, take off and store binder and combine canvases in dry place safe from rat damage. Repair or replace torn or worn slots and canvas straps. Give sickle same care as that given to mower. Grease and oil knotters, straighten bent or sprung parts, and replace broken parts and worn parts that look as though they may not last through next harvest. Order repair parts now.

4. Clean plows, grease wearing parts or cover them with old crankcase oil. Sharpen shares and have some extra shares on hand. Remove, sharpen and grease the cultivator shovels. Tighten or replace loose or defective parts of the frame. Order repair parts now.

5. Clean plows, grease wearing parts or cover them with old crankcase oil. Sharpen shares and have some extra shares on hand. Remove, sharpen and grease the cultivator shovels. Tighten or replace loose or defective parts of the frame. Order repair parts now.

Home sewing can help offset rise in clothing costs

Home sewing is one way to meet rising prices of clothing without being too skimpy but at the same time keeping well dressed, it is pointed out by Miss Fern Carl, clothing specialist of the University of Illinois College of Agriculture.

Figures from home account records kept by 500 Illinois homemakers in 1940 showed that from $15 to $20 was the usual amount spent for a winter coat. $4.10 for a silk or rayon dress.

This doesn't mean, Miss Carl said, that these homemakers were not well dressed. Undoubtedly they took advantage of sales and out-of-season buying. However, in the face of the fact that wholesale prices of ready-to-wear garments have already advanced 7 per cent since the beginning of the year, it is difficult to know whether a woman can get a good garment for the amount of money she can afford to pay.

Miss Carl pointed out that by doing home sewing the homemaker can save money on construction, can obtain better quality material and with probably find that yard goods have not advanced as rapidly in price as ready-to-wear garments.

She urges all homemakers to study labels and quality of materials, though pointed out that because of defense orders, manufacturers are rushed and are employing short cuts to turn out the material. This calls for more scrupulous buying, she said.

Babson's forecasts

demand for houses already built. It must be remembered, however, that where a third of the workers will have more wages and want to move into better houses, two-thirds of the workers will have no wage increases. Some will see their expenses so increased that they will be looking for cheaper homes as well as for cheaper cars. Readers who have a real estate which they would like to sell should make a strong effort to sell it during 1942 — at least sell enough to get out of debt.

What about retail trade?

Merchants in the defense areas should have a good year. I am not so hopeful for those outside defense areas. Certainly, the number of sales will be smaller although the total gross may hold up. Expanding the draft age may have a dampening effect on retail trade later in the year. The new draft call may also cut the labor supply of many industries. Blackouts are another factor in retarding consumer buying. Hence, merchants should increase advertising appropriations if they expect a good year in 1942. I advise merchants to keep down expenses; avoid wage increases; and get out of debt. If someone else offers you employees more money than you are now paying, let him have such. After the war they will come back to you glad to work for less money than you are now paying. Don't speculate in merchandise. Keep well stocked on standard goods, but avoid style goods which are hard to carry over. Inflation is with us and is gradually increasing prices at the rate of from 10-15% a year. Legislation can check it, but it can no more stop inflation than can legislation stop crime. Remember that when the war stops, it will stop suddenly. Therefore, merchants should keep close to shore.

Residential building will decline

Residential building during 1941 increased, as a year ago I forecasted it would increase. Hence, I do not like to risk my good reputation now in giving a figure for 1942. I believe, however, that rising costs, scarcity of certain materials and the provoking way in which labor has acted is hurting residential building. Surely it will show no increase in 1942 over 1941; while I should not be surprised if it fell back to 1940 figures — possibly to the extent of 10% to 15%. Public works and highway construction will be less in 1942 than in 1941. The building of industrial plants will continue in good volume during the first six months. Pleasure car production will be cut 50%. General export trade, except for war purposes, will also fall off. This will especially be true in the Pacific due to Japan's attack upon us. Remember that — as a rule — the curves for residential building, auto production, and non-defense foreign trade generally go in the same downward direction.

Utilities should improve

The utility industry is basically sound. With a few exceptions when high finance crept in, the utilities have been conservatively and efficiently managed. They have been foremost in reducing the cost and improving the quality of their service. Yet for some unknown reasons the utilities have been persecuted, taxed, sandbagged, and strangled as never has any legiti-mate industry before. When a financial history of the 20th century is written this unjust and unnecessary abuse — climaxed with the SEC "death clause" — will be its big black spot. What of their future? They will continue to grow and improve their service. All the bonds and stocks of the operating companies should be good investments. The bonds and preferred stocks of the holding companies should sell during 1942 for more than present prices. What about the common stocks of the holding companies? Well, those not preceded by bonds and/or preferreds should be okay. In liquidation they should get more than they are now selling for. As for holding company stocks, preceded by bonds and/or preferreds, I have my doubts. Yet some of these at present prices may be worth holding. Price-fixing should help the utilities.

What about the railroads?

Nineteen-forty-one has been the best year that the railroads have had since 1928. The total gross for 1941 will be about $5,300,000,000 compared with $4,300,000,000 in 1940; while the net for 1941 will be about $925,000,000, compared with $682,000,000 in 1940. The coming year 1942 will show higher figures both for gross and net earnings; but if so, 1942 may be a good time to get out of railroad securities. Yes, get out and stay out. After World War II the railroads are sure to get an awful licking from shipping, airplanes, pipe lines, auto trucks, motor coaches, and private cars of all kinds. Besides, the recent railroad wage award is very unfair to the railroads. The ICC and the Brotherhoods are killing the railroad industry. The sooner the government buys the railroads, the better off investors will be.

Money rates and bond prices

Money rates will stiffen during 1942; perhaps not appreciably, but some. Certainly any change that does take place will be on the upside. The U. S. government cannot spend about $30 billions a year ($575,000 per second) "mostly for fire crackers" without an ultimate strengthening of money rates even though one-half of the sum is raised by taxation. This ultimately means higher yields for Governments and corporation bonds. Certain medium-grade bonds should sell at higher prices during 1942. The money-rate pendulum has swung from high to low and vice versa for 2,000 years. It will continue to swing. The present decline in gold imports foretells the next swing. Gold imports are now running only 25% of 1940, while loans are increasing.

Cost of living

The official government cost-of-living figures, which will be published during 1942, will show a small increase each month. The reason is that these figures must cover the same items, brands, and grades in order to have them useful for comparative statistical purposes. As a practical matter, however, a family can switch its purchases from sirloin steak to top-of-the-round without any increase in the cost-of-living. The same family can cut down on desserts and save money on both food and dental bills. Hence, there need be no increase in the cost-of-living for well-managed families during 1942. This is especially true as 15% now goes into the garbage pail or is wasted in other ways.

Will wages be frozen?

Some engaged in the defense industries may get wage increases during 1942; but not more than enough to offset the rise in the government's cost-of-living indices. Certain concerns engaged in the non-defense industries will be obliged to pay key people a little more to hold them. The great majority of workers in the non-defense industries will get no increase in 1942, while some will get their wages reduced. The year 1941 saw the peak of strikes and wage increases. The Canadian labor policy may be adopted by our Congress. The law of supply and demand is still working. Cost-of-living in the defense areas may have already seen its peak. The new workers who are flowing into these areas may so flood the market as to prevent further wage raises. Besides, I'm in hopes the government will issue a supplementary table of living-costs after providing for switches in purchasing and waste eliminations.

What will Congress do?

My forecast a year ago as to what Congress would do in 1941 was 100% correct. Now, I am even surer of my ground. When Congress declared war it performed its most important act under the peace compact. From here out it will become of necessity somewhat of a rubber stamp. War emergency powers of the President will require but little action on the part of Congress. Remember that there are important Congressional Elections on November 3, 1942. Incidentally, the results of these elections will be very interesting to watch. They will give us a good clue as to Republican chances in 1944; but this is something for me to discuss a year from now. There is another possibility, namely, the enacting of labor control legislation such as Canada has adopted.

Price control and rationing

If price control legislation is enacted in 1942, it will not be very successful. Price control, without rationing, is usually a failure. Of course, the entire set-up appears cock-eyed to me. For instance, the purpose of price control is to prevent inflation and to discourage the purchase of non-essentials. But, does keeping prices down discourage purchasing? No! The way to discourage purchasing is to let prices rise. But, you ask: How about the prices of essentials such as food? Well, strange to say, the prices of farm products are not being controlled. Even wages are omitted "because we cannot force people to work" and yet wages are the most important factor in setting prices. Bernard Baruch is correct when demanding the freezing of everything on a given day — commodities, farm products, wages, rents, interest, and profits. Fine! But how can such a law be enforced? Remember the boot-legging during prohibition days and apply this to 100,000 articles. The answer is in having price control apply to a few essentials and then ration these essentials.

Social security legislation

There will be a new tax bill in 1942. It will somewhat increase corporation and personal income taxes, but not seriously. Let me again remind readers that all the Congressmen and one-third of the Senators will be up for re-election on November 3, 1942. There will be a serious attempt by the anti-inflation group to further tax luxuries and unnecessary non-defense products as the easiest way to raise money.

Social Security taxes on wages will be another easy way to get funds. They are really a sales tax of the most vicious kind, but the name and promises which go with them make them very difficult for Congressmen to oppose. "Social Security" is a poisonous pill, sugar-coated. The United States can easily commit suicide by taking too much "Social Security" poison. Of course, one fair way to collect more money would be for Congress to put an excess profits tax on wages identical with the present excess tax on profits. This would both raise all the needed funds and put an end to the labor racket for the duration of the war.

Rents and strikes

Rents will not decline during 1942, but whether to make long or short leases is debatable. Those owning large, old style houses should sell them during 1942 for any price they can get. I say this because of the action of carpenters, brick layers, plumbers, and painters who are fast killing the goose which lay their golden eggs. You can no longer afford to make over a large, old house into apartments as you once could. Again I say try to get out of debt during 1942.

There will be fewer strikes in 1942. The strike business has its "ups and downs" like the stock market. Labor leaders, like Wall Street bankers, strike while the iron is hot; they speed up while the going is good. With both labor leaders and bankers, their jobs are purely a business. The "business" of the average labor leader will not be so good in 1942 as in 1941. As the tax payers of the nation (and this includes every reader of this column) realize that during 1941 they lost about 20,000,000 man-days (or five times the loss during 1940) the American people will wake up and stop this nonsense. Statistics show that 1941 had 3,500 major strikes involving over 2,200,000 workers. This is about double the average of the preceding five years. Congress should insist on a secret ballot by workers before a strike can be called.

Farm prices will be better

I estimate that if farm prices are not controlled, the farmers of 1942 may receive an increase of 20% over 1941. This could increase the national income 10% and raise farm consumer purchasing power to nearly double what it was a few years previous. Cash farm income in 1942 should reach about $13,000,000,000 — the highest since 1920. This figure compares with $11,000,000,000 for 1941, and $9,000,000,000 for 1940. During 1941 food prices increased about 12%, but 1942 should show a distinct tapering off of this upward curve. By substitutions and the elimination of waste, most people can absorb this food price increase without either further wage increases or a reduction in living standards.

High living standards

Readers who are squawking about increased prices should remember this fact: — Considering 1929 wages and living costs at 100, the wage index has gone up to 108 while the retail cost of food has dropped to 80. In other words, the average American has today left over for non-food purchases $1,045 compared with $887 in the boom year of 1929. To put it another way, all wage workers are at least 20% better off today than in 1929. What possible excuse is there for more strikes or even wage increases? These high standards will hold up during 1942, notwithstanding our war with the Axis Powers.

Firmer commodity prices

Wholesale prices will average during 1942 about 10% over the "1941 average." But do not get excited. These prices are now about 10% below the 1926 level which the U. S. Bureau of Labor statistics considers "normal." Those who expect a less-than-10% increase point to (1) the large stocks of food supplies, raw materials, and merchandise now on hand; (2) the heavy advance purchases which consumers made during 1941 which could keep them going for some time; (3) the high taxes of various kinds which 1942 is to witness, together with the curtailment of installment credit; (4) a gradual increase of unemployment in the non-defense industries.

Those who expect a greater-than-10% increase point to (1) the steady decline in available non-defense goods regarding defense materials, the making of which goods will be curtailed; (2) the increased purchasing power which will come from the farm sections even if wages in the war industries are no longer increased; (3) a shortage and speculative buying and hoarding which cannot be controlled by psychology; and fear are more potent than law; and (4) the fact that higher taxes and more bond sales will result in greater disbursements which must come back to increased purchasing and higher prices.

I believe that these eight reasons about balance one another and that the net result will be an increase of not over 10%, as above indicated. This, however, does not necessarily require an equal increase in the cost-of-living for careful housewives.

Stocks to go up?

The stock market was a "selective market" during 1941 and will probably continue to be such during 1942. While the market as a whole was declining, certain stocks were moving upward. Among these were war stocks, movie stocks, motor coach stocks, chewing gum stocks, soft drink stocks, and certain chain-store stocks. On the contrary, the stocks of companies making mostly refrigerators, oil burners, auto parts, and the like have declined much more than the average market. This has also been true of the electrical appliance stocks and the "small-loans" stocks. As declining stock prices came in 1941 accompanying advancing business activity, it is logical that advancing stock prices should come in 1942 accompanying declining business activity. Certainly stock prices will recover sharply from present quotations even if not topping 1941 highs. The companies to buy into are those which are enjoying increased consumer demand and are having no government interference. First insurance stocks look good to me for 1942 investments. Besides, they should be a good inflation hedge.

Defense costs for 1942

During the calendar year 1941 our government spent about $16,000,000,000 with revenue of over one-half this sum. It is estimated that this will be nearly double in 1942. I estimate the government debt increased during 1941 about $12,000,000,000. Bankers recently estimated that on December 31, 1942 the government debt will be about $65,000,000,000 compared with only $20,000,000,000 in 1922 and less than $2,000,000,000 in 1917. As a result we are slowly approaching state capitalism. The Federal Government may some day control banking, transportation, and farming. I am bearish on long-term government bonds.

England is likewise increasing its debt by leaps and bounds. This makes me wonder why we talk only of an uprising in Germany. Could not the English, Japanese, Italians, or even American people get tired and quit? In this connection let me say that according to the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, U. S. taxes in 1941 were higher than English taxes whether measured on the average laborer or percentage basis. My estimate for U. S. federal, state, and local taxes for 1942 is $25,000,000,000. This gives a per capita figure of about $180 — for every U. S. person; while the British figure will be only $173 per person. Based upon national income, it is estimated that U. S. taxes take 25% of our national income while the British taxes will take only 22%.

Long warning

Just a word to various groups who read this forecast: (1) To manufacturers and investors: — Get out of the objective case. Stop kicking, but help more to row the boat. If you believe in "private enterprise" show more of this enterprise in your own plans and policies. If you love personal liberty, be willing to fight for it, to be taxed for it, and accept the risks that go with it. If you wish to avoid having the government make employment, make it yourselves. There never was any cyclone cellar for private property or for private enterprise.

(2) To wage workers and others: — Smash the racketeers whether in labor circles or government circles. In fact, workers shall vote by secret ballot as to whether or not they shall strike after hearing arguments from both the labor leaders and their employers. (I am willing to agree that no corporation be allowed to put on a "lock out" without a similar vote by its stockholders). I beg labor in 1942 to encourage the Department of Justice in eliminating all racketeers.

(3) The Babsonchart shows total U. S. business today at an all-time high. Production and consumption records are being made all along the line. More are employed and at higher wages than ever before. But if 1942 is as good as 1941 we will be lucky.

We should work, study, and cooperate as never before. On our shoulders rests a great responsibility. This is no time for politics or pettiness in any form. The stakes are too high. The very life of our country and our way of living hang in the balance. Let us join wholeheartedly in giving our all to serving humanity in this, its hour of need. Only real sacrifice, effectively co-ordinated, can tip the scales for righteousness and insure security. The fight calls for all we Americans can give of time, money, and blood. Most of all it means that we should ask of God forgiveness for our past selfishness and wastefulness. Let's begin the new year with an honest prayer that each of us as individuals shall be better men and women.

New Arlington is Modern; the Latest in Equipment and Appearance

by EDITH ATKINSON

The new Arlington Heights Theater is one of the most completely modern and attractively planned theaters in the entire Chicago area and in the middle west.

The Lucas Theater Co., owners, have spared no expense in bringing the latest in theater arrangements to the new theater.

The theater which will seat 800 was an entirely different seating arrangement. The floor has been so built that vision in any part of the theater will be perfect, with the eye always level with the screen.

All seats are so spaced in circular fashion on the arched floor, which has a drop of 7 ft. 4 in. in the front, that each person has an unobstructed view of the screen, between the two seats ahead.

The color scheme of the entire theater has been planned to harmonize with the walls of coral and midnight blue. The screen draperies are especially woven to match the decorative scheme, and will blend from soft coral to deep rust. They make a beautiful foil for the stage, and are automatically controlled.

The seats themselves upholstered in fabric to match the decorations, are of the most modern type, pushing back to allow ample space for the passage of patrons, with no stepping on toes and loss of time in being seated.

The wall murals show a perfect coordination of mural decorations in fluorescent colors, and this theater will be the only one in the middle west to have this new innovation, and wall treatment.

The murals were designed by the Hanns Tiechert Studios of Chicago, with Ziegner doing the artistry. The north wall is planned as an allegorical design of sun and day-night, the chariot of Zesu emerging from a sunburst, riding across the heavens in a background of deep blue, with sparkling stars and signs of the Zodiac, ending in a symbolic burst of color suggesting a rainbow at the end of the day.

The other mural on the south wall is made up of decorations suggesting the nightly chart of heavens. Floating among fleecy clouds is Luna the moon surrounded by other Zodiac figures, each with its astronomical constellation of stars above it. Among them are Virgo, Saturne, and Pegasus, the flying horse, all dramatized on the aurora borealis.

The whole effect gives a mystic pictured allegory, floating in a midnight sky, with softly colored clouds making the whole a perfect harmony.

The lobby gives a sense of spaciousness with its curved contours, finished in pastel colors to blend with the interior. It is indirectly lighted and is carpeted in a deep wine carpeting as are the aisles.

At the right and left of the lobby are ultra modern lounges, equipped with powder rooms for the ladies and tiled lavatories.

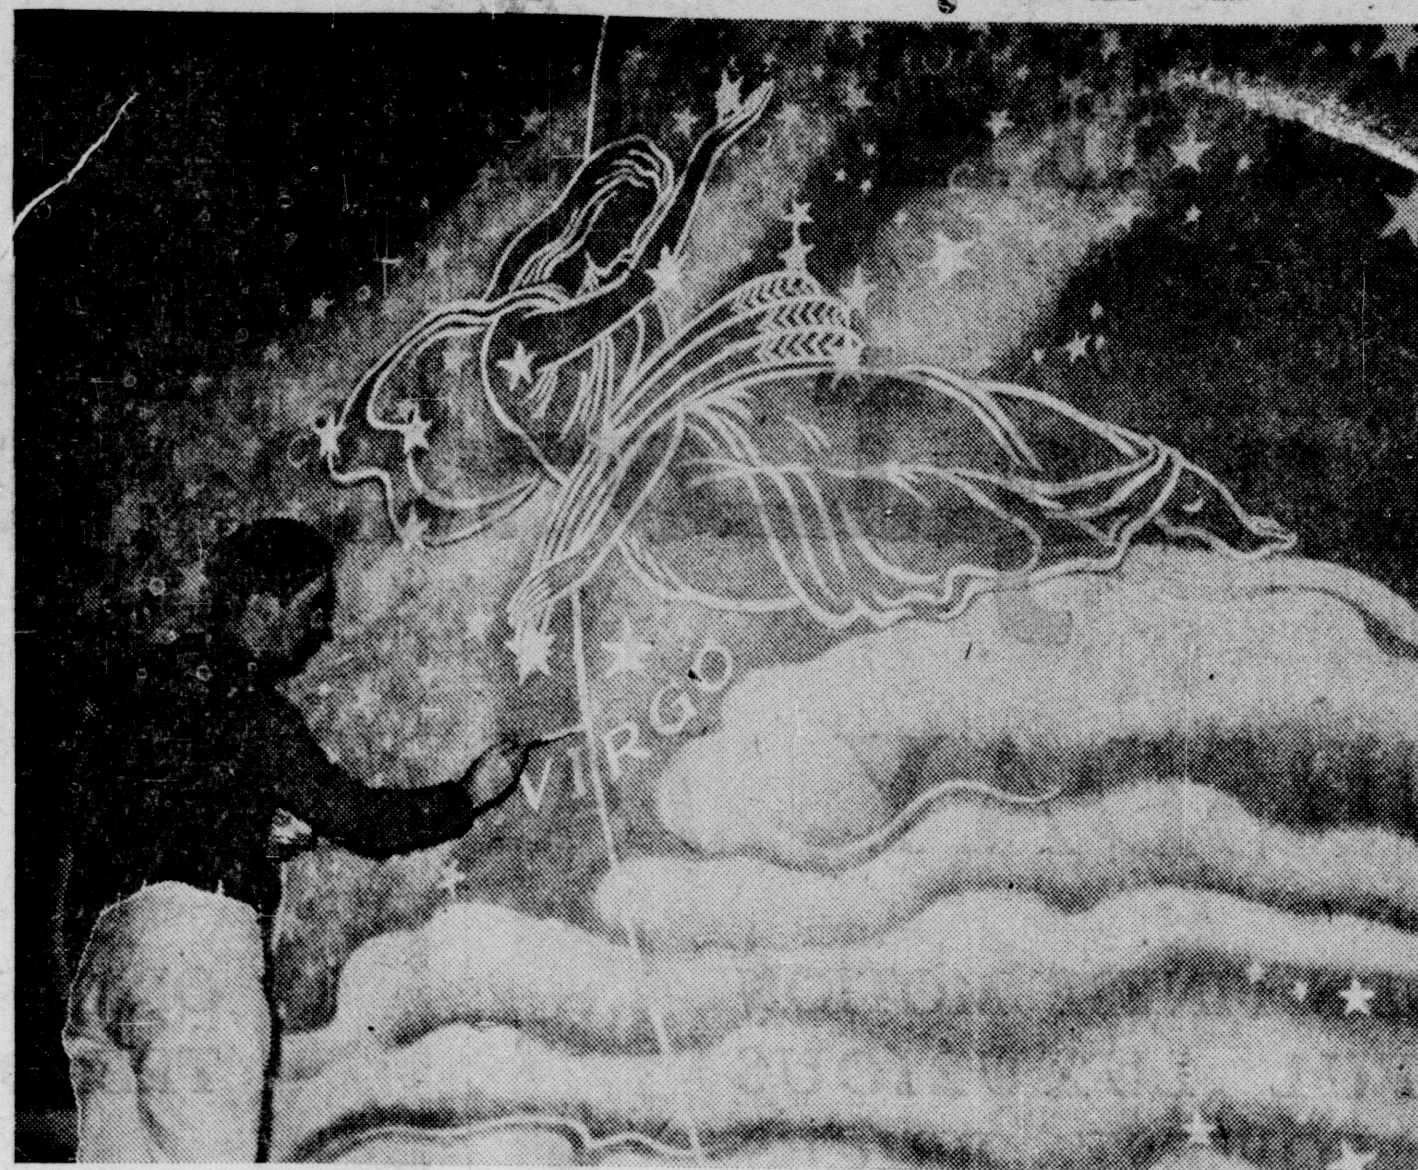

The theater is air conditioned and air filtered, and has the best in modern heating, planned in such a manner to eliminate all door drafts.

Mr. Donald Knapp, manager of the new theater has arranged to purchase films from seven major film companies, and has shown splendid cooperation with organizations in the village who are eager to promote good movies.

Goes to Panama next

Dan Dailey, Jr.'s work in "Down in San Diego" won him an important role in the new Ann Sothern musical, "Panama Hattie," now in production at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

The Artist at Work

Tracy scores in first dual role

Once again Spencer Tracy proves his right to his place as a two-time Academy Award winner with his portrayal of that favorite of fiction, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde." Sharing honors with the star at the Arlington Theater, are Ingrid Bergman and Lana Turner.

Surprise of the M-G-M production is the casting against type of the two leading ladies. Contrary to expectations, Lana Turner is the sedate Beatrice Emery, and Ingrid Bergman the little barroom entertainer, Ivy Peterson. Both prove their versatility in the unusual roles. One of the highlights of the drama is Miss Bergman singing "You Should See Me Dance the Polka" to the befuddled Mr. Hyde. Miss Turner, in her best role to date, proved herself a front-rank performer. Tracy dominates

But it is Tracy's performance which dominates the film. Admirable in his restraint, Tracy resorts to no gargantuan make-up to denote his transformation from the good Dr. Jekyll into the evil Mr. Hyde. With a minimum of facial horror, the star achieves his personality change through change of expression.

The Robert Louis Stevenson novel tells the story of young Dr. Jekyll, scientist interested in man's dual personality. He believes that in all men are good and evil. In some evil predominates over good, in others the reverse is true. Over the objections of friends, colleagues and sweetheart, Jekyll continues his experiments in this field.

Ladies battle in 'Feminine Touch'

The female of the species, represented by Rosalind Russell and Kay Francis, engaged in one of the most spectacular one-take battle scenes ever filmed. There was not even a rehearsal, but both stars had the advantage of watching Don Ameche and Van Heflin in a knockout fight that continued for half a day, counting rehearsals. The four cornered contest was a ludicrous incident in "The Feminine Touch," coming to the Arlington Theater.

Arlington service staff: Ralph Windheim, John Wright, Merlin Kost, ushers, and Paul Pingel, doorman.

Uncle Sam in Charge of Film's Prop Department

Uncle Sam was in charge of the prop department for much of the factual background in "Down in San Diego," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture which opens an engagement of three days at the Arlington theater New Year's Day and Friday and Saturday.

Placed in bustling San Diego, scene of American defense preparations, the picture reveals activities of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and aviation. The story concerns a group of youngsters who become involved with a gang of spies, eventually defeating them with the aid of the Marines.

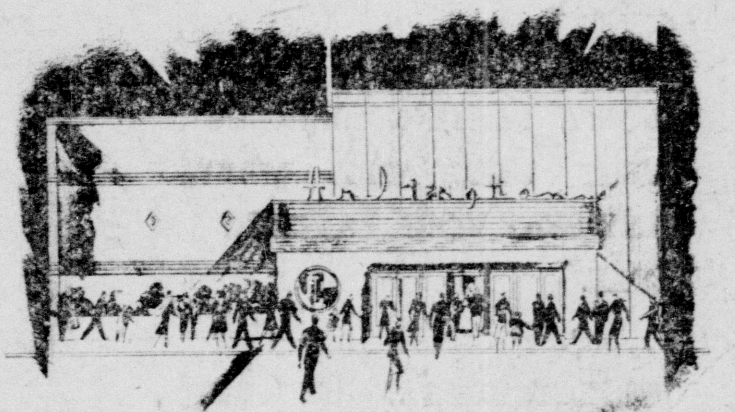

One of the most gripping episodes requires young Dan Dailey, Jr., to man a modern mosquito boat single handed, stealing it for the spies in a race to bring them under the guns of the navy airplanes. His sister, played by Bonita Granville, meanwhile is kidnapped by the spies, but he saves her and their companions, played by Ray McDonald, Leo Gorcey, one of the original "Dead End" kids, and Dorothy Morris.

Three stages used In addition to the actual government ships, men and equipment, the picture required special set construction at the studio, frequently filming on three stages and the huge back lot for exteriors. Part of the San Diego waterfront was reproduced, also a Marine recruiting office, a replica of the mosquito boat, swiftest craft yet devised, and Marine officers' quarters. Dan Dailey, Jr., enlists in the leatherneck outfit in his role, which required actual study of the manual, with a Marine technical advisor on the set for every scene. Dan regarded the role as a preparatory course in advance for his anticipated military service.

"Down in San Diego" presents Henry O'Neill, well-known character actor, as Col. Halliday, with Charles B. Smith also playing a prominent role in the film.

Screen Attractions Coming To The New Arlington Theatre

First Attraction

Felix Bressart, Robt. Young and Ruth Hussey are the stars of "Married Bachelor" showing with "Down in San Diego" this Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

So Help Me

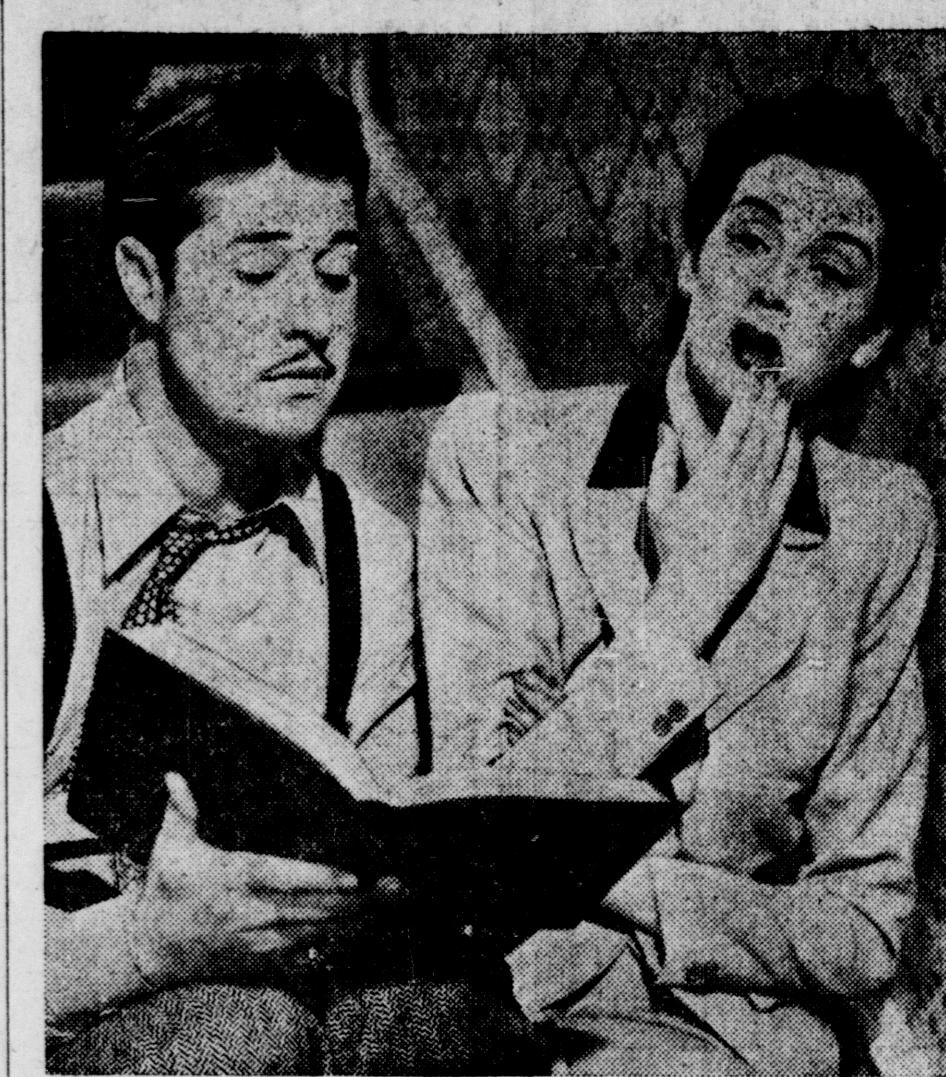

It's Bob Hope, star of "Nothing But The Truth" showing next Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, at the Arlington Theatre with "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

"Citizen Kane"

The three pivotal players in the dramatic action of the much heralded "Citizen Kane" are: At the top, Orson Welles; Middle, Ruth Warrick; Bottom, Dorothy Comingore, founder and guiding spirit of the famous Mercury Theater group in New York. Welles makes his screen debut with this picture, showing next Wednesday and Thursday, on which he performed a quadruple function of producer, director, writer and actor. The other feature is "Feminine Touch."

Don Lacks "Feminine Touch"

When a husband has to get his philosophy of love and jealousy out of a book, even though it's his own, the above is apt to be the result. Here are Don Ameche, and Rosalind Russell in a scene from "The Feminine Touch," coming Wednesday and Thursday, January 7 and 8, with "Citizen Kane."

Wealth collapse portrayed in 'Citizen Kane'

Do wealth and power bring happiness?

Around this theme Orson Welles has woven the gripping plot of his initial motion picture offering, RKO Radio's "Citizen Kane," in which he plays the title-role as well as producing and directing the film.

The story deals with the life of the fabulous Charles Foster Kane, who had two wives, one friend, and sixty million dollars and couldn't keep any of them. How the young millionaire builds a vast industrial empire on the foundation of a chain of newspapers and seeks to control the destinies of the nation, all makes up the absorbing background of the plot, against which Welles has painted the colorful figure of Kane himself in bold strokes.

The man's odd character, his years and his personality are strikingly disclosed from various angles, for the film is so contrived that half a dozen of the persons who knew Kane best in turn reveal their estimate of him.

"Dr. Jekyll And Mr. Hyde"

Dr. Jekyll (Spencer Tracy), promises Ivy Petersen (Ingrid Bergman), that she never will be haunted by the terrifying Mr. Hyde again in a gripping sequence from "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," which shows next Wednesday and Thursday, January 7 and 8, at the new Arlington with "The Feminine Touch."

Royal air force honors Rosalind

Rosalind Russell is the latest Hollywood star to become an honorary member of the celebrated Royal Air Force.

It was during the filming of Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer's "The Feminine Touch," and co-starring Don Ameche and Kay Francis, that Miss Russell was officially notified of the honor.

During the making of the picture, Miss Russell heard of the hundreds of English aviators ferrying American-made bombers back to England. She called a friend at March Field, the Army base in Riverside, California, and asked if there wasn't something she could do for these boys who were going to fly these planes back to England. She finally settled upon the idea of entertaining a large group of them at the studio.

The flyers were so grateful for the entertainment provided for them by Miss Russell that they elected the M-G-M star an honorary member of the Royal Air Force when they returned to England. She was notified of the honor by the next group of aviators to arrive on the West Coast.

'Down in San Diego' smartly acted melodrama

Thrilling action of American defense preparedness is adroitly woven into "Down in San Diego," new Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer picture which opens at the Arlington Theatre.

With a cast of talented young players directed by Robert B. Sinclair, the story concerns a group of youngsters who become involved accidentally with a spy ring in San Diego.

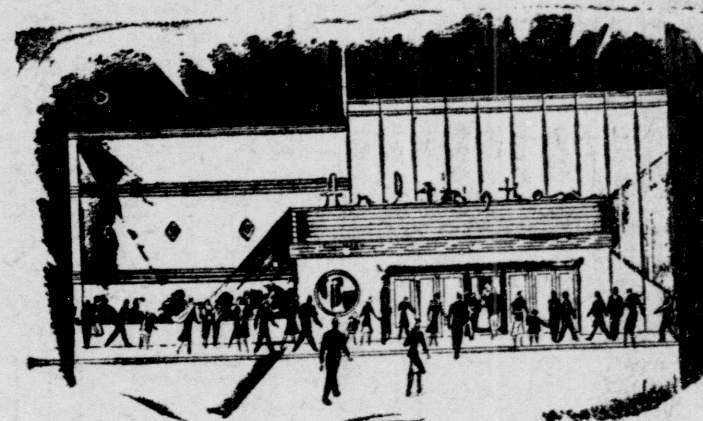

How the boys cooperate with the U. S. Marines in a daring capture provides a modern touch that is as new as today's newspaper headlines. The background of busy San Diego, with the Army, Navy and Marines constantly active, adds interest.

R. McDonald, Bonita Granville and Dan Dailey, Jr. have the principal roles. They receive excellent support from Leo Gorcey, of the original "Dead End" kids, Charles B. Smith, Dorothy Morris, Henry O'Neill and Stanley Clements.

McDonald, as the boy who attempts to join the Marines, lying about his age, reveals first-rate talent. This is also true of Bonita Granville and young Dailey, who portray brother and sister.

Unusual Incidents Highlight the Career of Orson Welles

For some reason, Orson Welles has never gotten around to crooning. But the versatile young genius has tried his hand, with amazing success, at practically every other phase of show business — and, nearly everything connected with Welles has been sensational in one way or another.

Born in Kenosha, Wisconsin, on May 6, 1915, Orson has been acting, or writing, or directing or producing since he was two years old.

His father, Richard Head Welles, was a well-to-do inventor, and his mother, Beatrice Ives, was a clever musician. The boy's parents died when he was a small child.

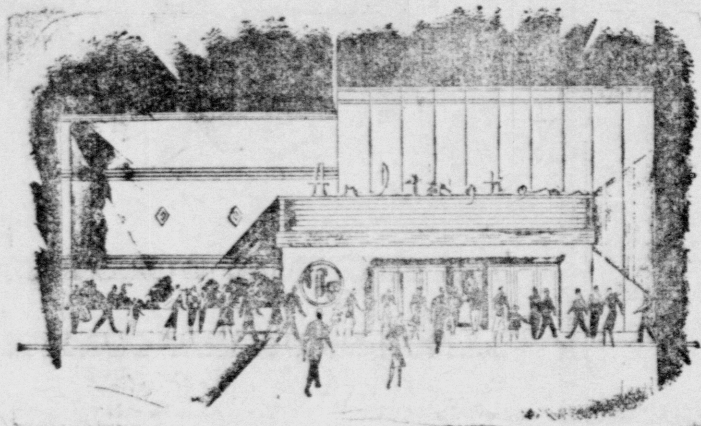

Dr. Maurice Bernstein, a noted Chicago physician "discovered" Orson's precociousness when the lad was in his second year, and he spent much time developing the boy's latent artistic abilities, later becoming Orson's official guardian. Under the doctor's tutelage, Orson built a puppet show of his own and started putting on his own telescoped versions of Shakespeare.

At the age of seven Orson entered the Todd School in Woodstock, near Chicago. Four years later he graduated from Todd, full of theatrical ambitions, and after a brief career as a portrait painter he went to Ireland, joined the Gate Players at Dublin's famous Abbey Theatre, and scored an unusual success with Irish audiences.

Returning to America he collaborated with Roger Hill, headmaster at Todd, on a special edition of Shakespeare; went to Africa on a tramp steamer, returned and wrote a play, and at the age of 18 landed his first big chance in this country appearing on tour with Katherine Cornell. began his radio career on a March of Time show. Soon afterward he formed the famous Mercury Theatre in collaboration with John Houseman. The organization had its ups and downs, but it also scored many successes on stage as well as radio. The famous "Martian" broadcast was one of the Mercury offerings.

In 1939 Orson signed a four-way contract with RKO Radio as actor, writer, director and producer, and began a long series of tests and experiments with film technique, about which he had plenty of unusual ideas. The outcome of a year and a half's preparation is his initial screen offering, "Citizen Kane," which aroused a vast amount of advance curiosity from picture-goers the nation over.

In person, he is six feet two inches tall and weighs 200 pounds, with black hair and black eyes. Restless and crammed with energy he seldom sleeps more than five hours a night.

Scoring his first acclaim as a leading man at the age of 16, playing opposite Katharine Cornell at the age of 18 and becoming a top stage and radio producer-director-actor-writer in his early twenties, Orson Welles has now, at the age of 25, produced and directed his first motion picture, "Citizen Kane," for RKO Radio. The film is said to be sensational in its drama and treatment.

No Stepped-on Toes at the New Arlington Theatre

New push-back seats recently installed, end climb-over nuisance

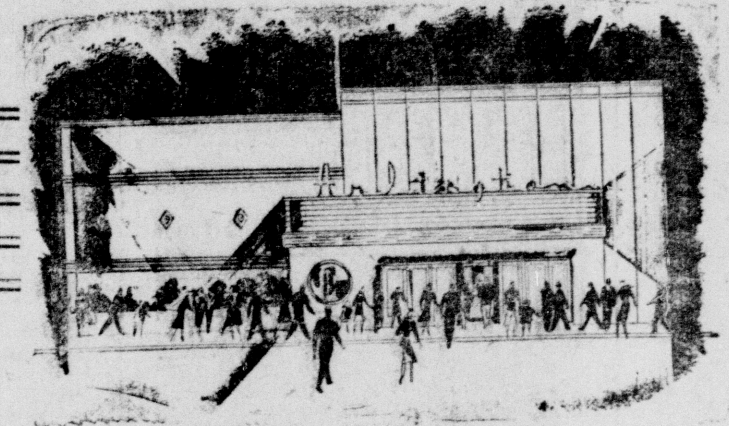

Among the greatest improvements brought patrons of the New Arlington theater is the installation of what theater men term "push-back" seats which definitely eliminate the "climbing-over" nuisance.

These seats represent the latest development in theater seating. They are, in fact, form-fitting, air-cushioned lounge chairs which move back at a slight pressure of the feet on the floor, thus making room for others to pass in or out of the row without stepping on toes — without gouging the folks in the row ahead in the back of the neck. When a patron desires to enter or leave a row, the other patrons simply remain seated and press gently on the floor with their feet. The seat slides back, providing ample room to pass quickly and easily. When foot pressure is released, the seat automatically slides back into normal position.

In addition to this convenience, which eliminates the "climbing-over" nuisance so familiar to all theater-goers, the new Push-back seats are said to provide comfort that even goes the easy chair at home one better.

Raid First Iron Works
Indians raided the first iron works set up in America by a Virginia company at Falling Creek, 60 miles above Jamestown, under John Berkeley, English "gentleman of honorable family." In March, 1622, redskins destroyed the plant, massacred all the workmen; only Berkeley's young son escaped.

It Happened Here

Many items and sidelights concerning the Auditorium have appeared in the public press lately but none of them paint the picture as it was to us. The Auditorium was an institution solid and impregnable, and it was, moreover, the place where the Christmas performance of The Messiah was staged for many years to the wonder and delight of our family of young people. It was a tradition, held to year after year, that we should go in together to hear The Messiah as a part of our Christmas festivities. This ritual was attended by many factors contributing to the holiday spirit; there was, first of all, the two-mile drive thru the winter dusk to the station, then the train ride into the city and the walk over to the Auditorium thru streets gay with Christmas decorations, gayer and brighter than they have ever been since. How we loved the long climb up to our balcony seats, the stir and rustle all about us, the first glimpse of the stage and the twanging of the orchestra, tuning up. And when the last hallelujah had been sung and we had made our way back to the little home station there was still the ride home thru the midnight woods; then the starry sky, the frozen creek and the snow-laden trees became a part of the grand Oratorio and the whole firmament was declaring, "And His name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, The Mighty God — The Prince of Peace — And the government shall be upon His shoulders."

... Patsy says she knows the difference between English and Spanish. "You can understand English."

A truck piled high with branches and sprays of Christmas greens stood beyond the cream retaining wall, a note of color and cheer against the gray morning sky; and the cheer seeped into the day's activities, even the squirrel seemed jauntier than ever; he is an arrogant thief but lovable, on the whole. We showed him the picture of the squirrel thief in the daily paper and he admitted the likeness.

... might be his brother over on the north side who was a notorious character; anyhow, he argued, the world would be a pretty dull place with no pirates or buccaneers or picturesque highwaymen in it, so what if we did catch him gnawing a hole in the grain sack in the back porch? ... Jim, the laundryman and ex-sailor, stopped to tell about an experience with Christmas greens aboard ship. "It's the custom at Christmas time to trim masts and all the rigging of the ship with Christmas greens if you can get 'em; this year we were tied up at Newport, R. I. and the shore looked promising, so a petty officer picked a crew and went after greens; well, they bro't back enough to trim the ship from stem to stern but it cost the company a pretty sum — the loot came from some of the finest estates of Newport."

MOTHER EARTH
Heap long fronds of green upon this ravaged earth.

Of fir and balsam branches let there be no dearth;

Spread mistletoe and holly upon this wounded sod;

Let the pine tree's fragrance incense be to God;

Red and waven berries, hide if hide you can,

These ugly earth wounds made by sentient man;

Fields where grain was growing, now so scarred and maimed,

We who bring these garlands are humble now and shamed;

Lest the earth should open with an age-old curse,

We would cry, Jehovah! and our sins rehearse.

—S'Amuser.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

by G. A. McELROY

There being little of sports interest in the local prep conferences during the holidays it might be well to look back and briefly review the happenings of the past 12 months.

In the Northeast Conference little Warren took two of the four major championships of the year with an undefeated football team led by Wirth, Doyle, Zelenko, Swanson, and other stars and also captured the baseball title with most of the same boys taking part. Crystal Lake was second in football and Niles the baseball runner-up.

Lakers Dominate Track

In track Crystal Lake dominated the conference with Paul Behan who had a mark of 150 feet in the discus throw being the league standout and a third place winner in the state meet. Arlington sent Niemeyer and Maseng to the state meet in the mile and half mile events. Arlington gained local recognition through winning the first Northeast-Northwest combined frosh-soph meet which was held at Palatine.

From Cellar to Championship Woodstock, cellar occupant of the previous year, came up under the direction of coach Kenny Zimmerman to take the title in basketball. Niles was right behind and Leyden's giants were third. Niles ran away with the junior varsity cage championship. Arlington, Crystal Lake, and Woodstock were the junior contenders. Niles is at present undefeated in varsity competition in the new season and Libertyville's juniors hold the same distinction.

Pirates Monopolized Basketball In the Northwest Palatine and Northbrook took most of the recognized championships. The Pirates won both varsity and junior varsity basketball. Having an undefeated record in the varsity division four games ahead of Wauconda and Northbrook. The Pirates were tied with Grant for the junior title with one loss. Barrington was the main contender. Palatine also won the district tournament and had a season record of 23 victories in 26 varsity games. The Palatine varsity five which passed out of prep sports last spring was rated by most critics as Palatine's best all round combination. The quintet of Hollinger, Hahnfeldt, Snyder, DeBerge, and Hildebrandt at the top in scholarship, sportsmanship, and interest in basketball as well as in all round ability.

As the new year starts Palatine is again on top in the Northwest with Bensenville and Antioch right behind while in the junior division Palatine, Bensenville, and Barrington are tied for the lead. Scholow of Palatine with 54 and Oswald of Wauconda with 50 points lead the scoring.

Palatine Had Great Track Season Palatine's record in track has been just as outstanding as in basketball. The Pirates in addition to beating out Bensenville for the conference championship won the B class of the Palatine Relays and took the Genesee Relays title. Palatine made its best showing on record in the Evanston district meet. The team leaders, Anton Cipri in the 440 and Ray Hahnfeldt in the discus, went to the state meet. Bensenville and Palatine both had crack 880 yard relay teams and Palatine's two mile relay team was the class of the smaller suburbs. Bensenville sent Audas in the sprints and Pomplum a great hurdler, to the state meet. Barrington's best was Fullerton in the discus.

Track success continued this past fall when Jim Langhoff established himself as the best cross country runner in the suburban area and led Palatine to nine victories in 10 meets and second place to Proviso in the big all suburban area meet. Anderson, Field, Timmerhaus, and Vogt were high in the scoring.

Vikings Take Two Titles Northbrook took two major championships in winning the grid title this past fall with two victories and a tie in a four team race and by running away with the baseball championship last spring. Antioch, a school that is fast coming back to its old tending position in conference sports had one victory and three ties in football and is right now one of the leading favorites in the basketball campaign.

Bisons Had a Good Year

In minor sports Palatine won the league tennis tournament and while no tournament was held it was generally agreed that Coach Kirby's Bensenville golf team was out of the class of other small school teams in this area. Bensenville has had a good year in spite of few championships. The Bisons were high in the lightweight standings last season and are now on top or near the top with both cage teams. But for the lack of distance runners Coach Trapp's track team would take its third straight conference title. Palatine's cross country work was the deciding factor in their conference track success.

Unusual Or Surprise Performances

Arlington's fine track team without either a track or a field for practice purposes . . . Arlington's tail spin in football after an impressive start . . . Warren and Woodstock coming from the bottom to the top of the conference in one year in football and basketball respectively . . . Palatine's loss to New Trier in the Waukegan regional tournament after 15 straight victories when they were expected to go much further . . . Palatine's up set of the Alumni last November, the team that had won two straight titles . . . Jim Langhoff's 4:39.6 mile at the Oak Park indoor relays . . . the title game sailed away . . . Arlington's great cage finale at Niles last spring when they soundly whipped the conference junior champs and forced the second place varsity five into an overtime with Becker getting 26 points for an Arlington record. Palatine winning 19 straight home games and 20 straight conference games in basketball to date . . . The decision of Bensenville and Palatine to play 11 man football in 1942 . . . The construction of the new track at Arlington High . . . Cipri winning the Evanston district 440 two years in a row with the best time in the state for districts in 1941 and then being pushed off the track and out of the place in the state finals both years . . . Seagrist of Woodstock . . . the Northeast and Hahnfeldt of Palatine in the Northwest winning the individual scoring titles in basketball.

Predictions For football next fall it looks like Antioch in the Northwest and Libertyville in the Northeast at this writing. In track Crystal Lake should repeat in the Northeast and Bensenville again emerge on top in the Northwest. We won't even venture a guess on baseball but would be inclined to think that Warren has enough veterans to repeat in the Northeast. In basketball we are sold on Libertyville's junior varsity winning the title and are inclined to guess either Libertyville or Niles to cop the varsity diadem but don't count out Arlington and Crystal Lake. In the Northwest Palatine ought to gain at least a tie for first if the boys put into practice the lessons they learned at the DeKalb tournament about the importance of keeping in condition. Antioch really has one of the best chances to finish on top in as much as Palatine and Bensenville must meet each other twice while northern teams meet southern fives but once. The junior title is a grand mix up with any of the three leading possible title winners. Right now it looks like Barrington has an edge but Palatine and Bensenville are tied with the Ponies. Bob O'Hagan of Arlington acclaimed at Marquette

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 29.—(Special)—Among Marquette university football performers who are certain of being announced as 1941 varsity letter-winners at an all-university gridiron dinner Jan. 15, is Bob O'Hagan of Arlington Heights, Ill.

O'Hagan, who was singled out by Coach Tom Stidham as "probably the most improved player" on the Golden Avalanche squad last fall, performed at the right halfback position. He had been on the Marquette squad in 1940 but saw so little action — only a minute or two — that he had sophomore ranking in 1941 so far as his athletic eligibility was concerned.

Up against a senior veteran in Johnny Goodyear of LaGrange, Ill., Bobby served notice at Marquette's football camp in the north woods last September that he was determined to take over the right halfback spot on the Hilltop eleven. Fast and alert, he not only was a fine running back and a good pass receiver, but the kind of a boy any coach would like to have in his backfield when it's time to go on defense.

Goodyear, as a senior, started Marquette's early games at the right halfback slot, but O'Hagan served at least equal time. Then came an injury to Goodyear, and the Arlington Heights boy took over on the first team and justified the confidence which Coach Stidham and his aides had placed in him. It is estimated he was in action in 400 of the 540 minutes which the Golden Avalanche saw on the field during its 1941 campaign.

It is interesting and true that O'Hagan scored what will always be regarded as the team's most important touchdown of the season — the first one on Wisconsin and the first one accomplished by a Stidham-coached Hilltop team. He took a pass from Halfback Bob McCahill and crossed into the enemy end zone to start Marquette's startling 28-7 rout of the highly-favored Badgers.

"Give me some more boys like Bobby," Coach Stidham said the other day. "He's fast, and shifty, and likes to learn. He can take the hard knocks, too. Above all, he has fine spirit and that's just what we need on a football team."

O'Hagan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles O'Hagan, 600 E. Fairview, Arlington Heights, and attended high school in that city. Until that touchdown against Wisconsin last fall, his greatest athletic thrill occurred in a prep game when he scored four touchdowns against Niles Township High. He is 5 feet, 11½ inches tall, and weighs 180 pounds.

Palatine loses at DeKalb, 31-25

Palatine bowed out of the DeKalb holiday tournament as they lost their opening game to Shabbona 31-25. The game was not as close as the score would indicate for after gaining a 14-7 lead in the first half the Shabbona boys ran the count to 27-12 in the third period. Harris, Howes and Warder each scored four points in Palatine's last quarter rally.

Shabbona took advantage of Palatine's slow shifting on defense to shoot over them and also to get a number of baskets from directly under the hoop. The Pirates evidently had too much Christmas and were not ready to meet stiff competition. The tardiness of one of the squad members caused the team to arrive in DeKalb one half hour later than had been planned and less than 10 minutes warm up was the Palatine boys got before starting the game.

Palatine made 10 baskets in 55 shots of which half came in the last quarter. Shabbona made 11 out of 48, getting all of them in the first three quarters.
